An original musical theater interpretation of 350 years of Rye Town's history

LOCAL HISTORY CURRICULUM GUIDE
PORT CHESTER SCHOOLS

Created August 2010
Revised to reflect Common Core Standards August 2013
A guide to live annual Capitol Theatre production
What is Flashbacks?

Flashbacks is an original musical theater work based on 350 years of Rye Town’s history. Rye Town consists of the city of Rye, the villages of Port Chester, Rye Brook and Rye Neck. Commissioned by Rye Town supervisor Joseph Carvin to be written by Port Chester resident Camille Linen, and Rye resident Donna Cribari. Flashbacks premiered in May 2010 at historic Crawford Mansion, Rye Brook. Linen and Cribari have written historic musicals for the U.S. bicentennial, Thomas J. and the country’s quadricentennial, Seasons.

Scenes from Flashbacks have been included in the Port Chester Public Schools Local History/Government Curriculum since 2005. The Flashbacks 2010 curriculum was developed by Ms. Linen with a curriculum committee of Port Chester teachers Jen Carriero-Dominguez, Park Avenue; Frances Cepeda, Edison; Claudia Levy, King Street; Karen Provenzano, Park Avenue and Paige Sileo, JFK Magnet and local history expert, Rye historian Doug Carey, Julie Colangelo-Dore, Common Core.

How can you use Flashbacks in your classroom? To use the Flashbacks curriculum effectively you need copies of the script, copies of the Port Chester Post Office murals brochure, the DVD of a taped production and/or a CD of the music.

Why use the Flashbacks curriculum in your classroom? The Flashbacks curriculum brings to life the NYS state fourth grade local history requirement, but it can be used in any educational setting from Kindergarten through adult ed. (See curriculum maps) It fulfills NYS state learning standards for ELA, Social Studies & The Arts,

How many different disciplines can be found in the Flashback curriculum?

Social Studies: Local history, American history, historic fiction, historic biography, geography, timelines, historical research.

The Arts: Music: chanting, singing, drumming; Theater: improvising, interpreting lines, characterizations, storytelling; Visual Arts: drawing, painting, clay, native crafts; mural making. The History of dance in northeast United States,
FLASHBACKS CURRICULUM...EXPECTED OUTCOMES:

Students will learn local history through the Flashbacks scenario and better understand the significance of historical timeline as local history mirrors American history.

Students will actively engage in language based activities that relate to Flashbacks and in so doing improve ELA Skills.

Students will better understand “how our past can help us learn to live and grow” (Flashbacks lyrics)

SPECIFIC COMMON CORE TARGETS: Students practice & improve speaking, listening, reading and writing skills as they...

- Use Flashbacks scenes as models for “spin-offs”-student generated stories and scenes based on Flashbacks characters, situations.
  RI. 4.1, 4.2, 4.3.
  SL. 4.1, 4.2, 4.3, 4.4, 4.5, 4.6

- Read Flashbacks scenes several times using different interpretations, voices.
  RI. 4.1, 4.7
  SL. 4.1, 4.4, 4.6

- Improvise, create and synthesize scenes that might have happened before or after the ones in Flashbacks. Example: What happened to cause Anne Hutchinson and her family to leave their home in Massachusetts?
  RI. 4.1, 4.2, 4.3,
  SL. 4.1, 4.2, 4.4, 4.6
  L. 4.1, 4.3, 4.6

- Discuss how the conflicts found in Flashbacks are still present in the 21st century:
  Native Americans: Destruction of environment; Colonial: Religious freedom;
  Revolutionary: political factions; Civil War: oppression of minorities;
  Industrial: abuse of power; Immigrants: present controversy. *
  RI 4.1, 4.2, 4.3, 4.9, 4.10
  W. 4.3, 4.8
  SL. 4.1, 4.2, 4.6
  L. 4.5, 4.6

- Research well known historical characters found in the Flashback cast.
  RI 4.1, 4.2, 4.3, 4.7, 4.9, 4.10
  W. 4.1, 4.4, 4.7, 4.8, 4.10
  SL. 4.1, 4.4, 4.5, 4.6
ENRICHMENT ACTIVITIES:

- Attend a live version of “Flashbacks” at Capitol Theatre, Port Chester
- Watch a video of the live production from 2016 Capitol production.
- Use artwork from different Flashbacks time periods as inspiration to create dramatic scenes or stories using the characters, setting depicted.
- Learn music from the different time periods:
  - Native American drumming, chants: Colonial: Thanksgiving songs, hymns;
  - Revolutionary: Yankee Doodle, marches: Songs from Flashbacks.
- Research other “river” songs: Shenandoah, Old Man River, Mississippi, (the song that teaches you how to spell its name) Compare to “The River Calls.”
- Create costume designs for all the different characters in Flashbacks. Learn the names of the styles of dress, headpieces used in each era.
- Make a 3-D map for the classroom of Rye Town 350 years ago.
- We are all immigrants: Keep a classroom map that includes markers for each country represented by a student’s family. Ask family members to visit class to tell a story, sing a song or teach a dance from their native countries.
- Use outline below to develop your own Flashbacks activities

FLASHBACKS DRAMATURGY
Donna Cribari, composer     Camille Linen, Book, lyrics

Flashbacks is a historical musical based on real people who lived in the geographic area of what is now Rye City, Rye Neck, Rye Brook and Port Chester: the banks of the Byram River. The Byram River was the chief “highway” for trade, commerce and communication. Just imagine how beautiful it must have been 350 years ago. The river is the ancient source of all we will learn in Flashbacks about our history... "the river sings of the things it’s seen."

First, Shanarockwell, the leader or sachem of those who were here before. He is the one who made his mark on a document and unwittingly "sold" the land to settlers Coe, Disbrow and Stedwell on June 29, 1660. Though pure invention, the outspoken Poninga’s name and character works well as our sachem’s wife. Both natives discover and remind us that today’s world “it is not what we once knew” The origin of the name of the “Buy rum” River is historic lore: you decide. The picture left is part of a mural in a restaurant on North Main Street in Port Chester.

Seventeenth century Massachusetts Bay colonist and exiled religious leader, Anne Hutchinson (shown in modern statue) is reported to have been sheltered by the indigenous people of the Rye Town area for a time. She certainly could have met Shanarockwell as they were contemporaries. She later settled in Eastchester where, ironically, she and her family were killed by hostile Indians.

Although Rye Town was called the “neutral ground” during the American Revolution, there were many loyalists (Tories) who dominated the local political scene early in the war. The stagecoach scene (below) of 18th century commuters is from the same Main Street mural. It shows the post road route that crossed and still crosses Rye Town’s cities and towns. When the “rebels” (Whigs) started to force out the British, those same Tories fled to Nova Scotia or England. Flashbacks reveals how political factions turned brother against brother.

History shows that though many wealthy Rye Town families kept slaves, many others were staunch abolitionists and helped runaways escape to freedom. The river was the slaves' highway for “travelin’ north till the sky gets bright, hidin’ away in the broad daylight.”

An escaped Virginia-born slave, Peter Lee, lived with his family in freedom on the banks of the Byram River for four years, but he was later captured and returned to slavery (pictured on next page in a 19th century engraving). In Flashbacks, Lee reenacts the fear, courage and strength of escaping slaves who found the way to cross, a "lower going over".
Captain Nelson Bartram was a local schoolmaster and volunteer soldier whose company B, Seventeenth Infantry (pictured left in Liberty Square) was the first from NY State (1861) to answer Lincoln's call to arms. Nicholas Fox, a member of Company B and an employee of Ward's factory, was a Congressional Medal of Honor winner. Samuel Bell who is buried in Rye's African-American cemetery, was a member of the Civil War's first all freedmen "Glory" regiment. (1863-1865).

In the late 19th century William Ward was a celebrity: a true entrepreneur and political boss of the best kind. Ward was an architect-engineer (his all concrete "castle", pictured right, was a first in the area and the country) His Bolt works provided hundreds of jobs for local residents for a century. His friend, John Lyon, banker and community builder, is also depicted.

We took the liberty of assuming that the post office muralist, Domenico Mortellito, who painted this mural of Ward's Castle in 1936, also painted its owner's wife, Tacy Ward so she's wearing the same dress onstage. Authentic murals costumes also include the schoolteacher's outfit from an 1880's portrait of educator and first female N.Y. state school board member, Lavinia Horton, (below left) another local legend. By way of historic serendipity, Lavinia Horton defeated the popular Captain Ed Studwell by 6 votes in an 1887 school board election. Studwell was a descendant of 1660 settler Stedwell whom we honor in the scene with Shanarockwell.

We also celebrate the 2009 post office mural brochure that was researched, designed and written by BOCES Adult Literacy students. The murals were painted as a tribute to Rye Town/Port Chester workers: doctors, nurses, mailmen, firemen, policemen, musicians, musicians

Finally there are the immigrants, "immigrants get the job done". We have chosen Italian immigrant and Port Chester resident Luigi Del Bianco (below right on Mount Rushmore) and Irish, Polish, Mexican and eastern European descendants to speak and sing for them. Flashbacks is "talking about America. Talking about the land of the free."

THE LIFESTYLES OF LOCAL INDIGENOUS PEOPLE...BEFORE 1660
From a workshop by Doug Carey, Rye historian

Lifestyle: Who lived in the Rye Town area pre-1660?
Although specific names of different Iroquois tribes are used in NYS history, it is the Delaware who were most represented. The indigenous people who lived in Rye Town area were nomadic (moved from place to place) They traveled by water in canoes.: 1) a small dugout style made of elm trees. 2) a larger made of white oak which was the heaviest wood that was buoyant (floatable). The larger canoes allowed them to trade more easily with other native people who lived across Long Island sound. A mortar and pestle were found in Rye Town Park, a sign that they made their homes on the coast.

They also traveled on foot paths that have become The Boston Post Road (Route 1), Milton Road, Forest Avenue, Rye City. They never saw a horse on the east coast until the 1600's. Horses came from Cortez invasion of Mexico. They never used "wheels" for transportation. They built their homes to last for one season. They were wigwams made of green (easily bent) willow branches.

Smallpox epidemics of the 16th century killed 75% of the native population.

What did they eat? Their food was taken from the sea and the surrounding woodlands: fish, rabbits, deer. Their style of growing crops was "slash and burn". This means they grew the crop, harvested it then cut it down and burned what was left. They had small gardens and grew one crop per garden: corn, beans, squash.

Evidence is found on Fox Island Road, Columbus Park, Port Chester.

What were their families like? They were matrilineal: the line of descent of the family was from the mother. This comes from their belief that the earth is our mother. The responsibility for the family's well being was the mother's. When a couple married they went to live in the bride's mother's home. Women were the decision makers even choosing the men who would govern.

How were the children educated? The indigenous were not literate. They had no alphabet. The used beads and shells, wampum, of different colors to represent ideas and told stories and made agreements with them. Their language was strictly speaking and listening. Children learned directly from family and tribal leaders.

Interesting Facts:
1. The name Poningo is what the natives called the land between the Byram River (originally the Armonck River) and Blind Brook (originally Makuong) Colonists tried to write down what they heard spoken by the natives.
2. Feathers were not worn as they were by Plains Indians.
3. Clothing was also seasonal and made of animal skins and plants. See next 2 pages of drawings used as models for costumes in Flashbacks.
THE STORY OF PETER LEE
Source: Greenwich Time article, by Frank MacEachern, March 7, 2010
Interview with Richard Hourahan, archivist
On a Sunday in late November, 1836, Peter Henry Lee left his home in Greenwich to go to Port Chester, N.Y. to meet someone. Whatever Lee thought the meeting would be about - maybe a drink with a friend, maybe the possibility of a job - he didn't know its aim was to return him to a life of slavery. Waiting for Lee, an escaped slave from Virginia, on the other side of the bridge over the Byram River, was a group of four men. To set the trap, a man who knew Lee was paid $1.50 to lure him over the bridge. Once Lee reached the New York side of the river, he was jumped, bound and taken back to New York City where, after several months of legal wrangling, he was returned to slavery. He would never return to the freedom he enjoyed with his wife and children in what today is Byram.

Peter Lee’s daring escape:
In 1832 he and about 15 others staged a daring escape from slavery by stealing a boat in Northampton County, Virginia and sailing it to New York City. This escape made Lee a double felon because he stole himself (he was a slave, he belonged to someone else) and he stole the watercraft(boat). But New York City was not the end because “the farther north, the safer.” He went to live in Connecticut.

Bad timing: Historians say that New York state at that time was more permissive of slave catching than Connecticut. That is the reason the slave-catchers lured Lee across the river into New York state. New York state didn't establish a Personal Liberty law until 1840, four years after Peter Lee's capture even though it had abolished slavery in 1827.

This is just an introduction to Peter Lee’s story which I discovered in April 2010 and incorporated in the short scene of Peter Lee with his two young children escaping from Virginia. If you want to learn more, follow the source cited above.
FLASHBACKS: Pre-Test (Can also be used as post test)

How much do you know about local history?

1. Who is the indigenous leader who allowed the purchase of our town 350 years ago?
2. What is the origin of the name of the Byram River?
3. What is wampum?
4. What did the “white men” use to purchase the land of Rye Town?
5. What historical colonial woman is said to have lived in Rye Town area for a while under the protection of the native Americans?
6. Where were she and her family killed, victims of an Indian uprising?
7. What famous county sites are named after this woman?
8. What two political factions were in Rye town during the American Revolution?
9. Which political faction was loyal to the British king?
10. Which one believed in independence from Great Britain?
11. What did “lower going over” mean to escaping slaves traveling north in our area?
12. What visual guide did slaves use to lead them north?
13. Why was it safer for escaped slaves like Peter Lee on the Connecticut side of the Byram River?
14. Why was the town of Rye’s Company B important in Civil War history?
15. Who was the only man in our area to be awarded the Congressional Medal of honor in the Civil War?
16. What local educator left his job to answer Lincoln’s call to arms?
17. Who is the architect, businessman and political leader who designed, built and lived in the first all concrete house in the country?
18. What factory did he start that employed local residents for almost a century?
19. What local entrepreneur from the late 19th century was also related to Governor Winthrop of the Massachusetts Bay colony?
20. When were the murals in the Port Chester post office painted?
21. What aspect of society are represented by the post office murals?
22. What local factories are represented in full length post office murals?
23. What local architectural landmark is represented in a full length mural?
24. What street in Port Chester lost eight of its young men during World War II?
25. What Port Chester resident and Italian immigrant was the chief carver on Mount Rushmore in the 1930's-1940's?

Opinion: Why was the geographical location of the Town of Rye so important to its history?
MODEL: LISTEN. Teacher will read aloud the introduction, Murals in the Post Office, from the Murals: Port Chester Post Office brochure. Students will listen, then answer the following questions about the reading:
1. What community building is the reading about?
2. Where are the murals found in this building?
3. Why is this building a “national treasure” for immigrant people?
4. When were the murals painted?
5. Who are the people in the murals?
Checkpoint: How many questions were students able to answer correctly?

PRACTICE: READ. LISTEN. Teacher will list the following vocabulary words from the reading on the board and define each one as it appears in the introduction.
Nouns: Review: What is a noun?
1. mural___________________________________________________
2. telegram_________________________________________________
3. Depression_______________________________________________
4. legacy___________________________________________________
5. disaster_________________________________________________

Verbs: Review: What is a verb?
1. sustain__________________________________________________

Adjectives: Review: What is an adjective?
1. economic________________________________________________
2. federal _________________________________________________

PRACTICE: READ. LISTEN. Students will follow the words in the introduction while the teacher reads it a second time, then answer the same questions above.
Checkpoint: How many questions were students able to answer correctly this time?

ENRICH: SPEAK. LISTEN. WRITE: Students will look at two pictures of post office, one from 1891, the other from 1934 and discuss the differences they see. Did you know that from 1891 until 1934 the post office was located in five different places in the community? Discuss how did this affected the people in the community? After listening to others' opinions, write the best answer you heard.

FLASHBACKS CURRICULUM ACTIVITIES  POST OFFICE MURALS- p.2

MODEL: READ. SPEAK. LISTEN: Students choose a description of a mural from one of the nine individual murals (lunettes) pictures in the brochure and read it aloud. These smaller murals are called lunettes because they are shaped like half moons. Listen to others read the descriptions of their murals.

PRACTICE: READ. LISTEN. WRITE: As students listen to others read the descriptions, they write unfamiliar words on the lines below.

1. The Baker: ___________________________ Word - _________
2. Doctor and Nurse: ___________________________ Word - _________
3. Grocer: ___________________________ Word - _________
4. Carpenter: ___________________________ Word - _________
5. Musician: ___________________________ Word - _________
6. Fireman: ___________________________ Word - _________
7. Postman: ___________________________ Word - _________
8. Teacher: ___________________________ Word - _________
9. Policeman: ___________________________ Word - _________

Work with a classmate who read the same description you did and define each word.

PRACTICE: READ. WRITE. Write the word that relates to the mural worker above:
Example: Fireman word is hose.

a. globe...b. cello...c. oven...d. bins...e. saw...f. stethoscope...g. hydrant

h. signal...i. whistle

ENRICH: WRITE. READ. SPEAK. LISTEN. Write your own description of one of the large murals: Use the vocabulary words to describe what you see.

Workers on the Dock: crane, pulleys, overalls...Ward's Castle: architect, reinforced concrete, hitching post, trough...Russell, Burdsall and Ward: nuts, bolts, tools, factory...Life Saver Factory: uniforms, machinery, packages.

ENRICH: SPEAK. LISTEN. Improvise speaking in the voice of one of the workers from the murals. Listen to classmates do the same. Combine two or more characters and improvise dialogues and scenes using the mural characters. Watch Flashbacks scene with Life Saver workers which was created as an improvisation.

Some of the images used in the song “It is Not What we Once Knew” were influenced by American poet Sara Teasdale’s poem “Barter”. Read these two stanzas of the poem and compare them to the lyrics of the Flashbacks song.

Barter by Sarah Teasdale

Life has loveliness to sell
All beautiful and splendid things
Blues waves whitened on a cliff,
Soaring fire that sways and sings
And children’s faces looking up
Holding wonder like a cup

Music like a band of gold,
Scent of pine trees in the rain,
Eyes that love you, arms that hold,
And for your spirit’s pure delight
Holy thoughts that star the night.

WRITE. Write the line and image that relate to the Flashbacks song.

What word, the opposite of a word used in the song, can be found in this poem?
What is the opposite one?
Review the word “image” and write its meaning here:

List 2-3 poetic images that are used in the song “It is Not What we Once Knew”
Remember...Poetic images appeal to the five senses. Example: “The earth so soft so smooth beneath my feet” Other images from the song are...

Which one appeals to the sense of smell?
the sense of touch?
the sense of seeing?

READ. SPEAK. LISTEN. Read the poem aloud several times to enjoy the rhythm and rhyme. Memorize the poem and recite it to the class.
READ. SPEAK. LISTEN. SING. Read the lyrics to “It is Not What we Once Knew” aloud several times. Review unfamiliar words and re-define them. Practice speaking the words until they become comfortable. Sing along with the CD/DVD.

Americans in the late 19th century liked to show how well educated they were by using French or Italian words in their speech. The Wards and the Lyons do this in Flashbacks. Look for the lines in the script in which the bold-faced words are used, define each word, then practice saying the lines with the right pronunciation.

An allusion is a reference to a specific person, place or thing that represents a time in history. There are many allusions in Flashbacks. Here is a list of some in the order in which they appear in the play. Research those you are unsure of.

MODERN: INDIGENOUS: COLONIAL: CIVIL WAR:
text sachem highway bugler
OMG teepee Boston harbor reveille in ten longhouse New England Company B cool wampum separate church/state Union dude three moons Hutchinson River Parkway Confederacy freaking out Manitou REVOLUTION:

INDUSTRIAL: SLAVERY:
entrepreneur River Jordan

MOD: READ. WRITE. IDIOMATIC PHRASES/SAYINGS.
Sometimes it is difficult to learn English because it is a language that is always changing. There are many idiomatic (unusual use) phrases that are used in different parts of the country and sometimes even in different cities. Here are some of the idiomatic phrases used in Flashbacks. Find the places in the script where they are used, define each one.

1. get it together
2. neck of the woods
3. paid a price
4. get your goat
5. beg your pardon
6. hit the spot
7. good for what ails you
8. go to waste
9. off the walls
10. give credit

IMPROVISATIONS

ENRICH: SPEAK. LISTEN IMPROVISED SCENES
Practice using the phrases in improvised scenes. Example: Think of a setting (place) in which you might use the phrase “give credit” - at a store, in school - and create a dramatic scene that might happen in that place.

ENRICH: WRITE. READ. SPEAK. LISTEN. INTO SKITS
Write the improvised scenes with your fellow actors. Convert the improvised scenes into skits and perform them for classmates.

ENRICH: SPEAK. LISTEN HISTORICAL ARTWORK
Study the historical paintings of colonial people, the photo of Company B, on Liberty Square and Ward Castle murals. Create dramatic scenes through improvisation:

1. Take the positions of the characters in the scenes. (Tableau style)
2. Improvise the words that come to mind while in those positions.
3. When the director says “Action” make the scene come alive.
4. When the director says “Cut” stop the scene and “freeze” in place.

PRACTICE: READ. SPEAK. LISTEN. Read aloud the following information about Mount Rushmore and Luigi DelBianco, an Italian immigrant who was the chief carver.

Mount Rushmore, the 500 foot high mountain monument, was designed by sculptor Gutzon Borglum. Work began on October 4, 1927 and ended in 1941 with Mr. Borglum’s death. Some of the project’s funding came from FDR’s New Deal WPA. Mount Rushmore is the largest carving in the world; each head is twice as large as the Sphinx. Washington symbolizes the founding of our country; Jefferson’s recalls the writing of the Declaration of Independence; Lincoln’s stands for the preservation of the union and Theodore Roosevelt’s the completion of Columbus’ dream to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans by building the Panama Canal.

Italian born Luigi Del Bianco, shown working on the mountain, was chief carver on the project from 1933 through 1940. He was responsible for the faces’ “refinement of expression”. Borglum wrote that “He (Bianco) is the only intelligent, efficient stone carver on the work who understands the language of the sculptor.” One unusual job Del Bianco did was patching the crack in Jefferson’s lip; it is now undetectable. Although not as well known as Borglum, DelBianco is a legend in his adopted hometown of Port Chester, New York where his family and namesake grandson Lou Del Bianco still live.

ENRICH: READ. WRITE. Answer the following questions:
1. How high is Mount Rushmore?________________________
2. When was Mount Rushmore built?_____________________
3. What does Washington represent?_____________________
4. What does Jefferson represent?______________________
5. What does Lincoln represent?

6. What does Roosevelt represent?

7. What unusual job did chief carver Del Bianco do?
